PENT Indigenous Teacher Education is a community-based Indigenous teacher training program administered in partnership by Brandon University and Frontier School Division to increase the number of Indigenous teachers working within its communities.

Frontier School Division invites applications for two PENT Educational Assistants to train as teachers at Frontier Mosakahiken School. The PENT Educational Assistants will assist teachers in the Early and Middle Years classrooms concentrating on literacy, numeracy, and science and incorporating Indigenous perspectives across the curricula. Student teaching will be combined with Educational Assistant duties from September to March and the successful candidates shall be prepared to participate in a practicum at another school to broaden their teaching experiences. The successful candidates must be able to handle the academic rigor of university courses offered through PENT Indigenous Teacher Education at Brandon University beginning in April 2025. The successful candidates must also be prepared to take courses through a distance delivery platform.

QUALIFICATIONS:

Interested applicants must meet the following qualifications:

- Be of Indigenous ancestry and a local resident of the community.
- Have a high school or mature student diploma and post-secondary education is considered an asset.
- Preferably be employed or have employment experience as an Educational Assistant.
- Excellent interpersonal, verbal, and written communication skills.
- Positive role model.
- Demonstrated work history – reliable and punctual.
- Interest and aptitude in literacy, numeracy, science, and Indigenous Education.
- Ability to work collaboratively as a school team member in a professional manner under the guidance of teachers and administrators.
- Willingness to participate in co-curricular activities.
- Interest and commitment to PENT training (5 year program).
- Availability to study at Brandon University during the months of April to July, and will be required to complete distance education courses during the school year.
- Agree to work a minimum of three years for Frontier School Division after PENT graduation and teacher certification.

Contact your school principal or area superintendent for application packages. For further details contact:

Debra Perih, Coordinator
