ABOUT THE COMMUNITY

Since time immemorial, the lands on which the community of Barrows was founded has been part of the overlapping traditional territories of local Indigenous Peoples. Though a trading post established in the region in the late 1700's drew both settlers and Métis People to the area, Barrows itself was established in the early 1900s by the Red Deer Lumber Company, becoming the largest of five Métis communities along the northern border of the Porcupine forest.

Today, Barrows' economy is primarily based on fishing and logging, with extensive ATV and snowmobile trails dotting the surrounding Porcupine Mountain Provincial Forest. Shopping and other amenities are approximately 40 minutes to an hour drive away, but Barrows remains lively year round with a community music festival every August, ice fishing in March, and a snowmobile derby in February.

SUBSIDIZED HOUSING IN BARROWS

There are two houses for staff located within steps of the school. Both mobile homes are 3-bedroom and are equipped with a fridge, stove, washer and dryer. Up to two pets are allowed. Utilities are included in the rent and Frontier School Division provides maintenance.

Wireless internet is available but is the responsibility of the tenant.

SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

Barrows Junction school is equipped with its own tipi, which is often used as a place where students can learn cultural teachings, storytelling, and participate in cultural events. The school also provides outdoor education, including nature walks, pottery classes, access to local hunters and trappers, and camping on school grounds in tents. There are currently plans to expand this nature-oriented programming, with designs underway for an outdoor classroom and wellness area with a firepit alongside the school.
